DR. LITTLE SPEAKS

Dr. Clarence Little, head of the research laboratories at Bar Harbor, gave an interesting lecture at Gould on scientific research on April 30. He stated the requirements that anyone who wanted to enter this field would have to meet. A traveler working toward no fixed goal, the research worker must not be narrow minded or selfish, must be able to accept insecurity, and must have a desire to hunt for truth. He must like the material he is working with, especially if he works with animals. He must have patience, also, for his work will have no set finish.

Dr. Little also states that one does not have to be the head of an institute to make contributions, for all contribute to discoveries and all have equal opportunities to make them. He stated that there have been many developments in the field of physics and chemistry, but especially in the biological sciences great steps are being taken. Medicine is waging war not only on virus diseases but on constitutional diseases. Medical research is being advanced in the field of cancer, and the small amount of knowledge about the human body is being greatly enlarged.

Dr. Little stated in reference to atomic energy, that the mere truth of a thing's existence should not be blamed for the use to which it is put. He also pointed out the three benefits of research work: one can participate in a great search; one contributes knowledge of lasting value; one is a pioneer of the scientific frontier.

In the question period that followed his lecture, Dr. Little described the experiments that

MUSIC CLUBS TO ATTEND MAINE STATE FESTIVAL

The musical organizations of Gould will go to Lewiston on May 17, to participate in the Maine State Music Festival. Eighty-seven members of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, the Varsity Glee Club, and the Band will represent Gould.

In the morning auditions will be held all over Lewiston and Auburn. At this time soloists as well as groups will be heard and rated by the Judges. Jane Kanaly, Grace Lenfest, Florence Pike, and Roy Lurvey will be the soloists from Gould. In the evening there will be a concert given by those chosen by the Judges from the morning's contestants.

In the afternoon there will be a parade of all those taking part in the Festival. After the parade a band concert will be held with all the hands attending the Festival participating.

Miss Griggs and the glee clubs have put a great deal of work into the music for the Festival and it is hoped that, as always, they will come out on top.

were being carried on in the field of behavior. Using dogs as experimental animals, they have made and are still making numerous experiments on the effects of heredity vs. environment. Psychological tests to gain knowledge about fixations and mental processes of the "only child" are being conducted with some degree of success.

Dr. Little, in closing, told of the great need for research workers in all fields of science today and reviewed the basic requirements.

BARY ENSEMBLE FEATURED IN COMMUNITY CONCERT

A group of students from Gould went to Rumford for the last concert in the Community series on Wednesday, April 30.

This concert was given by the Bary Ensemble. This unique ensemble was formed by Gertrude Bary. It consists of piano, flute, violin and cello.

Gertrude Bary, the pianist, who studied at the University of Leipzig, has toured the United States a great deal both as a soloist and in ensembles. She has been heard by many radio listeners from New York studios.

Lorna Wren, the flute player, has toured with other famous artists and has been soloist with the Orchestrette Classique and the New York Cratorio Society. She was first flutist in Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra for several years.

Mary Becher, the violinist, has been playing publicly since she was fourteen. In addition to making several transcontinental tours, she won the Harrison Award and a six-year fellowship at the Juilliard Graduate School.

The cellist, Virginia Peterson, has been a soloist several times with the New York City Symphony Orchestra. She recently toured thirteen states with the Manhattan Trio.

The ensemble presented a very enjoyable program. Some of the numbers were as follows: Suite, by von Gluck, played by the ensemble, Ballade in G Minor, played by Miss Becher, Nocturne and Scherzo, by Gunbert, played by Miss Wren, and Ave Maria, by Bach-Gounoud, played by Miss Petersen.

JUNIORS CLOSE SECOND

The girls of Gould Academy put on their annual gym exhibition in the William Bingham Gymnasium on April 25 at 7:30. The meet started as the girls marched in together, each class led by its respective leader, carrying the class's banner. A formation of four triangles was made; then everyone rose and sang the Gould Alma Mater. Immediately following this, the intramural competition began with an innovation—advertisements in pantomime. The freshmen's ad, representing Dole's Pineapple Juice, was depicted by two little girls in grass skirts and leis, holding pineapples. The sophomores' was Aunt Jemima's pancake mix, with Gaior McGorill in blackface mixing and cooking pancakes. Chen Yu nail polish was the juniors' choice, personified by Frances MacRae, who was in Chinese costume and carried about by a litter by four coolies. The senior class chose Fisk Tires for their ad. It was enacted by a little boy in pajamas with his arm about a tire and holding a candle. After the ads, the usual gymnastics and other exhibitions were presented. While the judges were counting the scores, Miss Stallwood was presented with a gift by the girls and a corsage by the seventh and eighth grade girls. Mr. Ireland then announced the scores. Although the juniors and seniors were very close, the seniors won and ended the meet by leading all the classes off the floor with the traditional snake dance.

CONGREGATIONAL CHOIR GIVEN SUPPER PARTY

The Congregational Church Choir was given a supper through the generosity and kindness of Mrs. L. Lord, Mrs. K. Wight, Mrs. C. Briggs, and Mrs. E. Van on Thursday, May 1, in the basement of the Chapel.

The membership totaled twenty-seven, and, because of the efficiency of the ladies in charge, a delicious supper was enjoyed by all. The various dishes were cooked superbly by the gracious hostesses, and all visible food disappeared with an astonishing speed.

After everyone had been filled to capacity, Mr. Hawthorne led the group in some singing. The choir members then amused themselves with several games instigated by Mr. Hawthorne. One of these was the well known "buzz, bang" game, with arm motions indicating the unsaid numbers. The other two games required an artistic talent, although the majority of the members lacked the artistic ability. The results of the games proved highly amusing. The party was then ended by singing a few more of the songs.

After the delicious supper the choir had its usual Thursday night rehearsal.

GRIN AND BEAR IT!

Depressed? Downcast? Discouraged? Does your head whirl at the thought of what must be done by the end of the week—and of next week—and of the next? Haven't you started that book report, the research paper, or tomorrow's homework? Do you snap at unsuspecting people who, for some strange reason suddenly irritate you? Well, my friend, if it helps any, console yourself with the knowledge that you do not stand alone! We all experience a slight sensation of dizziness when we look forward into the twenty-six days ahead. More than a few of us will join the last minute rush on the book reports. We're all a bit snappish. WHY does everything have to come at once?

Let's face facts. In the first place, ninety per cent of us are procrastinators. We'd much rather watch the softball game than read a book—so we watch it. We just naturally expect to be rushing around madly at the last minute, so we don't bother to try to finish things beforehand. Then we complain about it.

The weather has no little effect upon our ambition. The seemingly endless rain of the past two weeks had a noticeably dampening effect upon our spirits and desire to work, along with its effect upon the athletic field and the Andreascoggin. Everything, including us, seemed to get more and more waterlogged as the rain continued. At the appearance of the sun, we still feel like rushing to the window to get a good look at it. Who wouldn't get discouraged, when it rains for almost two weeks and even snows in May?

In general, most of us seem to be stricken with that far-from-fatal, but painful malady known as "the blues." Some of the seniors grow sadder every day at the thought of leaving Gould and all their friends in the very near future. Others, typical of the "defeatism" clan, insist that twenty-six days is about twenty-five too long for them! They don't mean to be bitter—chances are, they will all too soon be regretting that statement, but sometimes it does seem that things can pile up too much.

Yes, undoubtedly life at this point is plenty strenuous. Still, remember how the weeks dragged last fall? Aren't you glad in spite of all the extra work that you joined all those organizations? Haven't you had a lot of fun, and haven't you gained a lot of satisfaction in the work you did on that committee? Don't forget, we're all in the same boat. Even if you don't feel like it, why not give out with a smile or two—just to cheer your neighbor. Maybe he'll return the favor! Things could be a lot worse! J. R. B.

A Graduate Of Gould

ADDISON SAUNDERS

Addison Saunders, who was graduated from Gould in 1930, studied Physical Education at Springfield Y.M.C.A. College for one year after the completion of his course here at Gould. Addison was an outstanding member (right guard) of the basketball team which won the Oxford County Championship and was one of eight teams qualified to enter the Class A State Tournament at Bates College in 1930.

In 1933, he married the former Emily Clement of Mexico, Maine, and they now have four children. At this time he was employed as a machinist for the Oxford Paper Co., a position he held until 1935 when he became foreman at the Hanover Dowel Co. He maintained this position until 1941, when he again worked as a machinist at Bath Iron Works until he entered the service of the U. S. Army in 1944. He received his basic training in the Armored Tank Battalion at Ft. Knox, Kentucky, but soon was transferred to Aberdeen, Maryland, where he was an Ordnance Officer candidate and later commissioned as 2nd Lieutenant. He then was shipped to the Southern Pacific area where he served for nearly a year.

Upon his discharge from the Army in 1946, he became president of the Hanover Dowel Co., a business previously operated by his father, C. F. Saunders.

Addison enjoys baseball and skiing very much but is also keenly interested in flying. He has now received his Student Pilot license and does much flying during his spare time each evening.

He is a member of the Lions Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Knights of Pythias, and the Bear River Grange.

His excellent business record as well as his prominence in social activities indicates that he is destined to be one of the outstanding men of our community in the near future.

Opinions Appreciated

If you knew your grandchildren were going to come to Gould what would you do in your lifetime to make their grandfather (or grandmother) themes more interesting?

Bobbie Galbraith would be a champion flagpole sitter and never do anything else but sit on flagpoles.

Bert Fernald would be a jockey and ride all the famous horses. "But I guess all I'll ever ride is an old work horse," he sighed wistfully, "unless I fixed the scales before I was weighed at the races."

Biff Crockett had a morbid thought. She'd drive her husband crazy and have him kill her.

Joyce Chipman would buy, rebuild, and run Poland Town Hall.

Uuno Hertell didn't feel very helpful toward his grandchildren. Grandfather themes would be their worry, not his.

Jerry Linnell would marry a famous gambler. Then all that her grandchildren would have to do would be to cut out newspaper clippings.

Dave Patrick said if he led an interesting life it wouldn't be for his grandchildren.

Jane Kanaly very obligingly said she'd die young.

Martha Waterhouse would like to marry a millionaire (an old one), and after he died she could be a gay widow.

Margaret Davis said she'd go down to Cuba and discover a gold mine.

Martha Crocker, who has a very interesting grandfather herself, said she'd run away to sea, as he did.

Sally Adams, Irene Wight and Myra Stickney would all marry interesting men. The trouble is—are there that many interesting males?

What would you do?

A New Source of Aid

Alumni who are planning to send their youngsters to independent schools will be interested to know that a new source of financial aid has been established. The Foundation for Independent Education, Inc., 220 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mass., offers partial scholarships which may be applied toward the tuition charge of whatever independent school or Junior college parents may select. All applicants take competitive examinations at their scholastic level, prepared by the Educational Records Bureau, and must show evidence of financial need. Awards are made annually to both boys and girls. The selection of successful candidates is made by the Foundation's Scholarship Board which includes the headmasters and headmistresses of several of the leading independent schools in the East. The secretary of the Foundation will gladly furnish complete details.

INITIATION—from p. 1, col. 1
Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Fossett, Miss Griggs, Miss Swift, Miss Collins, Mrs. Waterhouse, and Mrs. Goggin.

After a pleasant evening of games and card tricks, by both the students and faculty, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson led a group in singing. Refreshments of coffee and cream puffs were then served. Again a group gathered around the piano, ending the evening with "Good Night Ladies."

It was planned that Mr. Ireland should give Honor Society pins to each of the members that they might wear them home, but due to unavoidable delay in their coming, they were not available. They will be given out in assembly when they do arrive.

Girls' Sports

The girls have been practicing for quite a few weeks for the volleyball tournament. The teams were chosen a little over a week ago. When the tournament was completed, the juniors were victors with no defeats, the seniors defeating only the freshmen the sophomores losing only to the juniors, and the freshmen, although they put up a good fight, losing all their games.

When and if the weather clears off, the advanced tennis tournament and softball will start.

At the present the sports record for the whole year is tied between the juniors and seniors. The juniors were victors in hockey, basketball and volleyball. The seniors won archery, badminton and the gym meet.

Every year the senior girls take an overnight hike to some nearby mountain. From what we've heard from other years they ought to be good. If the weather holds out, Miss Stallwood promises to take the girls this year.

UNDER THE CUPOLA

Well, Seniors, it's time to get that old brain working! Let's think up our class ode—or have we one on the way? All we need is another group like the one that composed the class song—under great difficulties—and paid a high price for it, too. Isn't anyone willing to sacrifice themselves and a small bit of their time for the class? The four Gershwins have decided to do it a second time. However, if need be, they will consent, but only under the condition that they may compose in broad daylight. Once is enough to play martyr!!

And all of us aren't lucky enough to know what it feels like to be hemmed in on both ends of the hall, are we, Peggy? Trapped like a rat in a trap!! My, that water was good! Of course, that's all you were out for anyway, hm-m-m-m-m??

The girls seem to be all turning gardeners now and raising all sorts of strange fruit. Chip-py has perfected a beautiful new combination orange-grapefruit, so she says—but ask Plum and you will get a very different answer!! Chip should patent that, shouldn't she, Jan, before everyone is lucky enough to be offered a bite of it!!

They are also turning doctor, under the influence of Mr. Thompson's latest story, and finding all sorts of delicious cures for colds. Chef doesn't believe in all these new-fangled ideas, but if he tried them I think he would approve. If you ask Plum about this, you will probably get the same answer—a negative one!! But D.D.T. suggested another cure—if the onions don't work, you can take the cure in a liquid form!! Do you approve of that, Plum, or are you unaware of the power of the newest remedy!!!

May, the month, waded in last week with her customary baskets slightly afloat and her queens a little dewey; but some youthful exponents of fetes and whirls went blissfully on with their bizarre schemes and petty frivolous. Among the latter are the individuals who graced Upper Church Street with their presence in a rather "he-and-she" rendezvous, called under the pretense of hanging a May-basket to Barbara Daugherty last Monday night. It seems the kiddies had exhausted themselves running around among the various medicine bottles and sleeping pills that clutter up the neighborhood, so it was essential that their fatigued systems indulge in a little rest and repast. And, from what we hear, the amusement of the evening was furnished by Bobby Croteau and Teddy Young.

If any bored being desires to get away from it all for a slight period, say a week-end, or yearns in any way for the rough and rugged out-of-doors, we don our salesman button and humbly suggest a quick trip to one of those pleasant abodes situated on any lake or puddle that usually house the surrounding population for the summer. One could follow the example of several adventurers who jumped the freight Friday afternoon for parts south. Loaded down with various selected items: blankets, food, lanterns, and someone's old shotgun, they were headed for a pleasant outing at a cottage on Lake Shag, to use the term "lake" loosely. Despite the disadvantages of primitive life this unique "hen party" turned out to be a huge success thanks to the absence of other undesirable individuals, male or otherwise.

"Happy birthday to you, Ann Cummings"—was echoing thru "The Casba" last week after a particularly strenuous volleyball practice. An impromptu celebration was started that noon from an excess supply of such treasures as candy bars, matches, baby pictures, and those things Frank Sinatra advertises. With these as presents, guests were carefully chosen from the Gould Academy Social Register and arrangements made to provide the refreshments and other essential items. The guest of honor rovaly received her little delegation of devoted fans and their gifts.

TRACK TEAM CAPTURES SEASON'S FIRST MEET

Pulling ahead in the last five events, the track men came through to a victory over a strong Fryeburg team by a score of 67-50.

Jerry Davis led the team with four firsts and two seconds for 26 points. His versatility and skill are shown by his performance in the field where he won the discus, javelin, broad jump, and high jump, coming within an eighth of an inch of the school record for that event.

Dick Ireland broke into the double win column by taking both hurdle events, and Dick Briggs broke the record for the 880 with a 2:07.06 run.

Earle, taking 12 points, was the only Fryeburg man to win more than one event.

MEXICO NINE BOWS TO HUSKIES 11-5

May 10.—The Gould Academy nine, showing better form than in their first start of the season, pulled away from Mexico High in the middle innings and continued to pile runs on to gain their first Western Maine Conference victory. Croteau proved to be the key man for Gould with three safe hits, while B. Arsenault also collected three for Mexico. Allen made the only two-base hit for Gould. Brown showed up well in his position at right field and collected two good hits. Capt. Wood is off to a good start at his new post as first base. Parsons made a thrilling back-handed stab at the ball behind second base, but, being off balance, missed the throw to first for the out.
